

May 06, 2008 12:01 PM Eastern Daylight Time

Consult2Comply To Help Global Organizations Respond To Increasing Compliance Concerns

Compliance Professionals Create New Service Organization to Address Global Compliance Issues; Announce Key Services and Software Products

HERNDON, Va.--(BUSINESS WIRE)--Consult2Comply, world leaders in the compliance industry, today announced its official corporate launch to provide services aimed at helping businesses make sense of compliance issues. Consult2Comply also announced the availability of two key software products to support compliance-industry and risk-assessment professionals in achieving adherence to the many regulations, standards and best-practice requirements around the world today.

"Consult2Comply is being launched at a time when interest in compliance is at an all-time high," said Steve Crutchley, Consult2Comply CEO and founder. "The vastness of the compliance market demands dedicated, skilled individuals with significant know-how about multiple regulations, standards and best practices worldwide. That knowledge and experience has been captured in a suite of low-cost, high-functionality products for the compliance industry."

The company brings decades of market experience with international businesses in compliance and alignment challenges from around the globe. Crutchley has more than 30 years of experience in the risk management, governance and compliance industry and has worked with a range of telecom, financial services, utilities, transportation, government and e-commerce industries in the U.S., the European Union, Middle East, Africa and Asia Pacific.

Consult2Comply's partner program will enable partners to offer Consult2Comply products, value-added consulting and specialized implementation services to their customers.

The trend of multiple regulations being thrust upon organizations had made Risk Management, Governance and Compliance a top corporate concern. The compliance market is set to grow at record pace. In addition, new laws related to privacy of information, information leakage, and governance of business and particularly IT are starting to motivate organization to be more diligent in running their business affairs.

About Consult2Comply

Consult2Comply is a privately held risk, governance, compliance and services firm launched by a group of professionals with collective experience deploying compliance solutions across North America, Europe, Africa and the Middle East. Headquartered in Herndon, Virginia, part of the Fairfax County technology corridor outside of Washington, D.C., Consult2Comply draws on its subject-area expertise and global perspective to deliver comprehensive compliance solutions and program implementations. Learn more about Consult2Comply at www.Consult2Comply.com.

Contacts

Consult2Comply
Steve Crutchley, 703-871-3950

